Pentagon Cuts February Draft Call To 18,000

Army Appears To Be Advancing Date For
Cut In Service Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon, slashing its draft call for next February to 18,000 men, appeared today to be starting five months ahead of the originally contemplated schedule for cutting down the size of the Army.

The new call is 5,000 below the monthly calls which have continued since last July—and something far different from recent statements by some Pentagon manpower experts that monthly quotas might be hiked to about 37,000.

Wilson Announced Call

Secretary of Defense Wilson, however, was not one of those who made such statements. It was Wilson who announced the new February draft calls yesterday—and it also was Wilson who on July 21 said, in answer to news conference questions, that he thought calls could be dropped to 15,000 or 18,000 with a truce in Korea.

Wilson's comments yesterday came as he boarded a plane for Paris after some intensive final-hours work with other Pentagon officials on the Defense Department's recommendations for the next fiscal year.

Wilson's comments seemed to mean the Army definitely has lost its battle against a suggestion from the top defense level that it reduce its personnel strength from about 1½ million now to 1,281,000 by July 1, the start of the next fiscal year.

To Bring Down Strength

The Army previously had been going ahead to bring its strength down to 1,423,000 by next July 1.

If it was to hold a level somewhere near that—while balancing off losses through expiration of enlistments—it would have required a continuation of increase of the 23,000 monthly induction figure.

Wilson was asked yesterday, as he prepared to leave for the North Atlantic Treaty ministers' meeting in Paris, about the draft, call plan and other matters.

Can monthly calls be cut still more beyond 18,000?

"I don't think so," he answered.

Can the draft be dropped?

Not so long as the international situation imposes substantial military manpower requirements—not "in the foreseeable future," he added, "you probably couldn't maintain half the men we now have."

Scholarship Group To Seek $14,000 Fund

The Salem Community Scholarship Association will conduct a campaign this month to raise $14,000 in operating funds in order to make the association self-supporting.

This was decided at the sixth annual membership meeting Friday night in the High School building.

If the $14,000 mark is reached, the fund will become revolving and self-sustaining, and no further donations will ever be needed, association officials declared. Contributions will be sought from industry, business, civic organizations and individuals.

The board of trustees will meet next week to discuss further plans for the campaign.

This year, five students participated in the activities of the association, and a total of $1,760 was lent to them. The sum of $410 was received this year as payment on old loans.

E. S. Dawson was re-elected association president last night for a term of two years, and Holland Cameron was chosen vice-president for a two-year term, replacing C. F. Cobourn.

George Emeny was named a six-year trustee, succeeding George E. Perrault.

E. M. Stephenson served as treasurer during 1953. E. S. Kerr was secretary and Attorney Guy Mauro was chairman on the approval committee. Appointments to the latter offices will be made later.

The association was formed here to aid deserving students who could not afford a college education.

Democrats Rally, See '54 Victory

Control Of Congress
Is Claimed Certainty

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Democrats from the East kicked off a victory-in-'54 rally today, stoutly backing Adlai E. Stevenson's claim that party prospects are looking up.

Echoing the "fair and warmer" reading of the Democratic political barometer by the 1952 presidential nominee, Pennsylvania's Democratic national committee man, Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, confidently proclaimed:

"There is a trend back to our party."

Claim Congress In Bag

Lawrence and other party leaders said the Democrats are sure to pry loose in next year's vital congressional elections the shaky Republican grip on the House and may recapture control of the Senate. Democratic strategists said they have soaring hopes of snatching half a dozen or more seats from the GOP in 11 East Coast states alone.

Democrats from these states and the District of Columbia are here to whip up party pep, raise cash for the coffers and listen to a

Father Who Slew 5 To Face Grand Jury

STEBUNVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Prosecutor Bernard T. McCann today called a special session of the grand jury for Monday to consider the case of hymn-singer Frank Holt who killed four of his children with a crowbar and critically injured a fifth.

McCann said he would ask the jury to return a first degree murder indictment.

Holt, 34, a jobless miner continued to sing hymns and yell that he beat the children Wednesday to save them "from the tortures and torments of the devil" as he sat in his jail cell here.

His wife, Beatrice, 32, was in Pine Grove, W. Va., where the bodies of her daughter and three of her sons were taken after funeral services at nearby East Springfield yesterday. Services will be held there tomorrow in the Baptist church.

Little Doran Holt, 5, only survivor of the five victims, remained in critical condition at Ohio Valley Hospital.

Peace Negotiations In Korea Ended Abruptly

Hall Planned To Kill Kidnaping Partner, Claim

Shoulders Says Slayer
Told Him Of Idea To Get Rid Of Witness

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The resigned policeman who broke the Greenlease kidnap-slaying case says Carl Austin Hall planned to kill his partner as the one person who could be identified as having a part in the crime.

Louis Shoulders, in an exclusive interview with Globe-Democrat reporter Ted Schafers last night, said Hall told him about the plan Oct. 6, the night Hall was arrested. Hall, calling Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady "nothing but a drunken bum," was quoted by the former officer as saying the slaying was planned for Oct. 7, apparently with the same weapon used to kill 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease.

Shoulders said Hall told him Mrs. Heady was the one who could be identified as a participant in the crime. The 41-year-old divorcee was later identified as the woman who took Bobby from the exclusive Kansas City school.

Seeks Burial Near Him

Mrs. Heady has often expressed intense love for Hall and has asked that he be buried beside her in a family cemetery at Claremont, Mo. The pair is scheduled to die together in the Missouri penitentiary gas chamber early Dec. 18.

Shoulders, who faces Police Department charges for his handling of the arrest, challenged the Police Board to release a full transcript of his testimony in the board's inquiry into the case.

He also declared the confession introduced at the kidnaping's Kansas City trial was not Hall's full confession and challenged the FBI to release the complete text.

"Why don't they tell the whole story?" he said. "The public is entitled to all the facts from the Police Board and the FBI."

Shoulders, who resigned from the police force soon after the inquiry started, said he wanted the public to know the truth "as I gave it under oath." His resignation has not been accepted.

Dolan Suspended

His partner in the arrest, Patrolman Elmer Dolan, was suspended by the Police Board and also faces department charges.

Shoulders said he never stated the money-laden suitcases containing the ransom money were brought into the district police station at the same time Hall was booked here.

"I deliberately sneaked those

Entire Town Donated To Small College

ELKINS, W. Va. (AP)—Davis and Elkins College, small Presbyterian school with some 600 students, has been presented with an entire town.

West Virginia Coal and Coke Corp. gave the college the nearby mining community of Norton, with strings attached. Norton, with 500 population, includes 70 acres of surface land and 113 houses recently leased to the Norton Coal Co.

Dr. Davis K. Allen, college administrator, said the gift was the largest the college has received since its founding in 1903. He said Davis and Elkins expected to realize a "substantial" income from the grant which designates the college as lessor.

West Virginia Coal and Coke, with main offices in Cincinnati, sold the actual mining operation to the Norton Coal Co. Oct. 31.

B36 Crashes In Texas, 9 Airmen Killed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A 10-engine B36 global bomber, lumbering in for a landing through swirling snow, rammed into a mountain yesterday and blew up.

All nine men aboard were killed. Five of those aboard, including the commander, had parachuted from a B36 over England last February.

The bomber was letting down to land at Biggs Air Force Base here when it smashed into the west slope of bleak, 7,100-foot Franklin Mountain, just north of the El Paso outskirts.

City Patrolman E. A. Williams, among the first to reach the scene, said nine bodies "were scattered up and down the slope."

"One body was on fire. It was soaked with gasoline."

Carswell AFB, Fort Worth, said the B36 was being ferried to Biggs, where it was to have been permanently stationed.

Face On TV Screen Is Gone In 'Pool'

BLUE POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Ah, face, it's good to know you—and to know you have disappeared from that television screen.

The face that looked out of Jerry Travers' TV set for two days, with the set turned off or on, was identified by NBC as that of Francey Lane, a singer on one of its shows.

Then "poof"—as Mrs. Travers described it—Miss Lane's face on the screen turned into a ball shortly after lunchtime yesterday and finally faded away.

TV experts, who at first said "it can't happen" had other explanations:

Could be an explosion of electrons burned the image of a face into the fluorescent lining of the picture tube.

Could be the image just burned itself off.

At any rate, the Traverses and their three small children are happy and their TV screen no longer stands shame-faced to the wall.

NBC has invited Mrs. Travers and her family to come face-to-face with the face (of Miss Lane) on Monday.

Two Persons Injured In Road Mishaps

Two persons were injured in two of four traffic mishaps investigated by Salem State Highway Patrolmen Friday.

An auto driver, Fred Dunlevy, 64, of Minerva received abrasions of the right forehead and minor lacerations when his car collided with two school buses at about 4 p.m. at the entrance to United Local School near Hanoverton.

Patrolmen said Dunlevy's northbound car struck a bus emerging from the school grounds operated by James Marquis, 47, of Hanoverton, and then rebounded into the side of an approaching bus operated by John Ridgeway, 48, of Hanoverton.

The Marquis vehicle contained 60 homebound children; the Ridgeway bus was empty. None of the children was injured.

Dunlevy's car was demolished and some damage was caused to each bus.

The auto driver was cited for driving at an improper speed in a school zone. He was treated for his injuries at the Central Clinic. Clarence Webb, 37, of Saginaw, Mich. lost control of his truck-trailer on a turn at the intersection of Routes 14 and 46 near Columbiana at 9:45 p.m., causing his vehicle to overturn.

Webb sustained bruises of the elbows, knees and legs and was treated at the Salem City Hospital. He was cited by patrolmen for reckless operation.

Considerable damage was caused to the truck trailer.

Accusation By Reds Irks Dean, Who Walks Out

Worsening Situation
May Force U.S. Envoy
To Return Home

PANMUNJOM (AP)—U. S. envoy Arthur Dean abruptly broke off negotiations to set up a Korean peace conference today and angrily walked out in the midst of a marathon Communist harangue.

Dean said the final straw was a charge that the United States connived with South Korea in the release of 27,000 anti-Red Korean war prisoners from Allied stockades last June.

Dean said he treated the Communist charge "as a reason to break off the talks."

"I said they had accused my government of perfidy and that unless it was withdrawn I would interpret it as a motion on their side to indefinitely recess," the U. S. envoy told newsmen.

He emphasized that only a direct request from the Communists, coupled with a full retraction of the charge, could get the seven-week-old preliminary peace negotiations under way again.

Asked if he was going to Washington, he replied:

"I don't know."

It was reported Friday that the spokesman for 17 nations which fought in Korea probably would return to the United States before Christmas, leaving the stalemated negotiations in charge of his chief assistant.

Dean's walkout ended a 5 hour 45 minute session, the longest since the talks began Oct. 26.

The Reds became "ruder and ruder, more and more insulting and more arrogant" as the long session wore on, Dean said.

"It was evident," he added, "that they wanted to become so rude and so arrogant as to force discontinuance of the talks."

He said the Communists may have wanted to break off the negotiations because they want "to escape their responsibility under the armistice agreement for a unified Korea."

"It is obvious that they are now doing everything they can to prevent the unification of Korea," he added.

Shortly after the record session opened Dean accused the communists of holding American and South Korean war prisoners as slave laborers in China and Manchuria.

Dean told newsmen he and President Syngman Rhee of South Korea reached an agreement in talks Friday on a course for the preliminary peace negotiations. He said he reviewed the progress of the talks during the past week and "Rhee and I saw completely eye to eye on the preliminary talks."

Dean added, however, that Rhee

Footsteps of Jesus

A medical student takes up music

Virginia's Asa Brooks Everett would have been a medical doctor had not his brother, L. C., been forever playing musical instruments around the house. So Asa gave up the study of medicine and joined his brother in the study of music.

In Boston, Choir Director-Composer Lowell Mason was teaching music and sending his pupils all over New England to conduct singing schools. After a stretch of study in Boston, A. B. Everett came back South, teamed up with his brother and Church Musician R. M. McIntosh and founded the L. C. Everett Music Publishing Co.

What Lowell Mason and his associates were to North, the Everetts were of the South. A century ago it is said they kept more than 50 instructors and song leaders moving from place to place in the Southern states teaching, singing and conducting song concerts.

While the Everetts brothers and McIntosh were furthering the cause of church music in the South, a school teacher-minister's wife in Fall River, Mass., was editing school periodicals and writing hymn poems. Her name was Mary Bridges Canady Slade.

Sweetly, Lord, have we heard Thee calling,
Come, follow Me!
And we see where Thy footprints falling
Lead us to Thee.

Thou' they lead o'er the cold, dark mountains,
Seeking His sheep;
O' along by Silom's fountains,
Helping the weak.

If they lead thro' the temple holy,
Preaching the word;

Among others of Mrs. Slade's poems, McIntosh set one titled "The Kingdom Is Coming" to music and made it one of the most popular of missionary hymns. It's found in nearly all hymnals and begins:

From all the dark places
Of earth's heathen races,
O see how the thick shadows fly!
The voice of salvation
Awakes every nation,
Come over and help us, they cry.

ASA BROOKS EVERETT died near Nashville in 1875 at the age of 47. He might have become a great doctor. He did become a great composer of religious music. After four years of study in Leipzig, Germany, he was awarded the degree of Doctor of Music and, with his brother, edited many a stately hymnal. But he never lost the pulse of the masses. Few indeed are church-goers who have not been moved by this old camp meeting favorite by Mary B. C. Slade, for which Asa Brooks Everett wrote so appealing a tune.

Or in homes of the poor and lonely,
Serving the Lord;

Then at last, when on high He sees us,
Our journey done,
We will rest where the steps of Jesus
End at His throne.

(Chorus)
Footprints of Jesus, that make the pathway glow;
We will follow the steps of Jesus where'er they go.

Nixon To Report On World Tour

45,000 Mile Trip Got Data For President

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon returns to Washington Monday with a fresh bird's-eye view of Asia and the Middle East and a report for President Eisenhower that may recommend a review of some aspects of American policy toward this explosive part of the world.

But the vice president, after an intensive 10-week trip, is expected to strongly support nonrecognition of Communist China, a continued military buildup in the Far East and other major points of present U. S. policy.

Nixon, accompanied by his wife, has traveled over 45,000 miles in swift but revealing visits to 21 countries between New Zealand and Africa. He left Iran today for Libya after a three day visit here. Speaking to newsmen at the city's airport, he paid tribute to Premier Fazzollah Zahedi's government, saying the country has "the kind of leadership needed to provide stability and real progress."

The vice president has gathered for Eisenhower perhaps the most comprehensive survey of the Pacific area, Far East, south Asia and a slice of the Middle East ever collected by a top-ranking American official. It covers everything from views on Indian Prime Minister Nehru to the operation of American overseas libraries.

Nixon has given no public indication of his own views, but there is evidence he may recommend some changes in the approach to Asiatic problems and perhaps some alteration of such technical operations as the U. S. information program.

He already has reported to the White House on two of Asia's most immediate issues:

1. The possibility that France may conclude a truce in Indochina on terms American officials fear would permit Communist-trained Vietnamese leader, Ho Chi Minh, to win political control of the peninsula.

2. The necessity for an early decision on whether to grant military aid to Pakistan. Agreement on such a program would mean a new tough policy toward Nehru's government, which strongly opposes any arms aid to India's northern neighbor.

Communist China and Russia have chimed in with their own protests against any U. S. military help for Pakistan. The Peiping government delivered a formal protest note to Karachi yesterday, following up an identical note by Moscow Oct. 30.

Competent sources in Karachi said yesterday American leaders now are considering building up Pakistan to challenge Nehru's influence and leadership in non-Communist Asia.

Some key officials reportedly feel past overtures to the Indian leader have failed to produce even "friendly neutrality." Because of this, the sources said, it is believed Nixon will recommend ending the "soft policy" toward Nehru, throwing more support behind Pakistan.

Sugar-Coated Corruption

Ohio's welfare department will have a lively bear by the tail if it continues its threat to force Harrison County to take federal funds it does not want.

The bear will not be little Harrison County but a huge force of public indignation against the kind of bureaucratic strong-arming of a minority fighting for a principle.

If Harrison County has no more stomach for the sugar-coated corruption of federalism made palatable by money which belonged to local government in the first place, that is its privilege.

Ohioans will not stand aside while their own state officials join forces with Washington bureaucrats to make a mockery of Harrison County's right to run its own affairs.

They will insist that Gov. Lausche, who privately admits he favors Harrison County, take a public position on this issue.

This is no sudden development. For three years Harrison County officials have been fighting this battle tooth and nail — fighting Washington, fighting Columbus, fighting officials of other counties afraid of losing funds unless Harrison County fell into line.

The issue is this: Whether or not Harrison County, with an estimated 15 totally and permanently disabled indigents who could qualify for $50 a month federal payments, would permit a branch office of the federal government to be set up to handle the handout. The county would have to pay the overhead for this office plus 20 per cent of the cost of the payments.

Harrison County's officials have turned thumbs down. They prefer to take care of disabled indigents through general relief funds. The struggle to whip Harrison County into line began in 1950. No one paid attention at first. But a great many people are paying attention now—and they don't want Harrison County to lose.

Energy For The World's Work

The prompt refusal of Soviet spokesmen to see anything useful in President Eisenhower's proposal for pooling atomic research is typical of Communist obstructionism.

Thus, the United States is able to claim credit for giving nuclear fission a positive, hopeful aspect after years of unbroken terror resulting from demonstrations of its power to destroy life and property.

In efforts to understand this aspect, Americans need to remember that their own atomic experts have resented the necessity for stressing the destructive uses of nuclear fission. They have preferred to think of it from the beginning as the ultimate source of energy to do the world's work.

They have been afraid of what might happen if U.S. militarists and bureaucrats succeeded in stifling its potentialities for industrial advancement.

There is reason to suspect this may have put the United States under a handicap in comparison with at least two other countries — Britain and Russia.

It is possible that both may have gained a head start on the United States in the development of nuclear fission as a source of industrial energy. It is possible that in a pooling of atomic research for nonmilitary purposes the United States might have a great deal to gain.

If the research were to be pooled without the Soviet Union, it is likely that the free world would gain an immediate advantage in productive capacity not only for peacetime use but for wartime too.

Of all the countless times the Communists have said, "No" this was the time they could least afford to admit that obstructionism is the only foreign policy they possess.

An Aeon Later

G. Yates Cook, housing rehabilitation director of National Association of Home Builders, uses an expression about one kind of modern housing which couldn't be more descriptive.

He calls those rows of dreary two and three-story flats which so often turn into city slums "cliff dwellings" and compares them with their counterparts in the Indian ruins of New Mexico.

Mr. Cook, in other words, doesn't think housing is any better than it used to be just because it happens to have been built an aeon later. It's an interesting point of view.

Is the modern cave dweller any better off in his burrow than his counterpart in ancient times? And what about the three dwellers who live up high, the stilt-house dwellers and the ones who can fold their tents and seal away? When the archaeologists dig up the ruins of 20th century civilization and piece together the circumstances, will they be impressed favorably, or will they shake their heads and wonder how aboriginal Americans managed to stay alive?

American girls are dolls, says a French writer. The kind a fellow has to stuff—in a restaurant.

Russia Gets Point

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Eisenhower's Speech Brings World Nearer Peace

World peace is nearer as a consequence of President Eisenhower's speech before the United Nations Assembly — and the best confirmation comes from Moscow itself.

For, while the Soviet comment on the surface is negative for the moment and does not analyze the proposals to pool atomic-energy knowledge for peaceful uses, the most important fact that President Eisenhower conveyed to the rulers of the Soviet Union evidently hit its mark. Moscow comments indicate that they got the point—that, if there is an aggression, the retaliation with atomic bombs will be made with all the quantitative force of atomic weapons the United States can instantly mobilize.

THE MOSCOW radio made this significant comment initially: "Eisenhower threatened atomic war and made a eulogy of this policy of force."

The Soviet commentator stated a half truth — for Eisenhower did threaten an atomic war of retaliation, but only as against a "surprise aggression." It is important to note what passage attracted the attention of the Soviet government. It was this paragraph in the President's address:

"Should such an atomic attack be launched against the United States, our reactions would be swift and resolute. But for me to say that the defense capabilities of the United States are such that they could inflict terrible losses upon an aggressor — for me to say that the retaliation capabilities of the United States are so great that such an aggressor's land would be laid waste — all this, while fact, is not the true expression of the purpose and the hope of the United States."

THESE CAREFULLY chosen words struck home. For the Kremlin understands the language of force. Now it has had from the lips of the President of the United States the most solemn warning uttered by one government to another since the close of World War II.

The warning old Soviet Russia it could eliminate any thought that the United States would vacillate in its action in defense of its territory.

With the warning also went this sharply worded sentence to the rulers of Soviet Russia which the people of that country can also understand: "Surely no sane member of the human race could discover victory in such desolation."

IT MAY WELL BE that the President's words came as a shock to the Soviet government which may have been led to believe heretofore that an America terrorized by the recent news about the destructiveness of the H-bomb would be too scared to announce a policy of fierce retaliation. Now that the Soviets have the American answer — announced by the man who headed up our military forces in Europe in World War II — the problem of what can be done to control the uses of atomic energy for both peace and war becomes more pertinent than ever to both sides.

The Soviet government, upon reflection, will unquestionably perceive that it cannot convert Eisenhower's words into a threat of an attack when they really were uttered as a threat of retaliation only in the event of attack by an aggressor.

SO FAR as world opinion is concerned, the Soviet Union will find it necessary in a matter of days to deal sympathetically with the American proposal for a pooling of atomic-energy knowledge for peaceful purposes.

No matter how much Moscow may quibble and argue, the Soviet government will be compelled in the court of public opinion to make at least a gesture by giving consideration to the Eisenhower plan. Sometimes in diplomacy a government accepts the principle first and then later debates at length the application of the principle. The Communists are too sensitive to propaganda currents in the world today to lose a chance to show that they, too, want atomic energy for both peace and war placed under international control.

EISENHOWER has shown them Communists will take it — but in their own way slowly and with plenty of protests and with voluble comments and criticism.

The President of the United States has moved the world closer to peace.

What he said had to be said — and from now on the debate may well be academic as the "cold war" drags on and the idea of a "hot war" fades into the distance in the years immediately ahead.

The American rearmament build-up since 1950 has proved its great value this week.

Wanting Things

By TRUMAN TWILL

Three old-timers were joshing during lunch about what they used to want for Christmas.

Old Knuckle Head said he wanted a pair of cowboy gauntlets that would come up to his elbows, with stars on the cuffs; some high-top shoes with a strap and a brass buckle to hold them snugly in place just below the knee; a new mackinaw in a red and black plaid and a Flexible Flyer — the big one with accommodations for a full-length boy interested in whizzing down full-length hills.

Old High Pants said he wanted a steam engine with an upright boiler, a red flywheel, a whistle, a speed adjuster and an alcohol burner with an extra supply of alcohol in a quart bottle. He also wanted a Meccano set — the large size with an electric motor — and one of those motor wheels that kids in his day used to buy for their bikes, also a wood-burning set suitable for lining out sketches of Indian canoes on pieces of white pine.

Old Pod Belly got into the spirit of the thing and said what he wanted was his own boxful of carpenter tools, with a saw that would really take a board apart, a hammer with the right balance to it, a brace and a set of bits, an assortment of nail sets, some good chisels and all the rest of the stuff a fellow needed to do the job right.

Pod Belly said he was going to buy a set of tools like that for his grandson when the kid was old enough to appreciate good tools. He said that to this day he has no decent tools though he always has wanted them. When he was a kid, no one took him seriously and after he grew up he never could justify the money they would cost.

High Pants admitted he finally had given his own kids the steam engine no one ever gave him, and also admitted he still plays with it now and then when he is alone in the basement and no one is going to barge in on him and wonder if he had flipped his bald spot. But he never did get the Meccano set or the wood-burning outfit.

Knuckle Head said that's the way it was with him about the gauntlets, also the high-top shoes with the strap and buckle, also the mackinaw and the Flexible Flyer. He never has quit wanting them, though he realizes he wouldn't know what to do with them now if he had them. Kids don't want the same things they used to want, though he said he had no doubt that what they did want they wanted just as badly.

The funny thing about wanting these things and not getting them then or ever was that none of the three seemed to feel the cards had been stacked against him — then or ever. That wasn't the idea.

They were just reviewing some of the things they wanted and didn't get when wanting things was an all-consuming desire that could eat you up from the inside out and go right on being hungry. There were all kinds of things boys wanted — to make the team, to be smiled at by the only girl who mattered, to be praised by a certain teacher, to go to circuses, to have muscles like Charles Atlas, to have a BB gun, a rifle, a new bicycle, a pup, or a pair of long pants.

Looking back at it from the perspective lent by a large chunk of the 20th century they could agree that the best part of being alive is wanting things and that not to want anything is to start being dead.

Knuckle Head, High Pants and Pod Belly are living it up. They want a new outboard motor, a new shotgun and a chain saw, respectively — none of which they expect to get. But they can dream, can't they?

Once a seething volcano, the Valle Grande, in central New Mexico boasts a crater of 166 square miles.

Israel's Cold War With Books

By LEONARD WHARTMAN

The author, who has recently returned from a four-year stay in Israel, has a broad, first-hand knowledge of life in the Jewish state. He is editor of the "Israel Digest," the publication of the Israel Government Office of Information in New York City.

A little-known skirmish in the East-West cold war has been going on quietly for the last two years in Israel. No one has been killed, although the contest has waxed hot at times.

The battle is for the mind of the Israel reading public and the weapons involved are books, magazines, newspapers and records.

The tiff started in 1951 when the Russian Ministry of Propaganda, cocking an eye at Empty Israel bookshelves, decided that here was fertile territory which could be profitably seeded.

Israel's critical shortage of foreign exchange made it impossible for her to import books from abroad, and locally printed volumes were being bought up almost as soon as they appeared.

ACCORDINGLY, the Soviets embarked on a policy of sending in vast quantities of books which could be paid for in local currency. Israelis awoke to find themselves inundated with Red propaganda, with the stream of communist reading matter growing greater each month.

The imported books ranged over a broad field from astronomy to zoology. Some were in Russian; many were in English. However, they had one thing in common: they were all thickly spiced with Russian dressing.

Having no other reading materials at hand, Israelis thronged the stores selling the Russian books and it appeared that the Communists were in a fair way to capture the Israel reading public.

The situation alarmed both the Israel and the American governments. Israel officials were concerned by the fact that the country was being swamped by a literature which took a dim view of democracy and Zionism.

IN ADDITION, the Soviets were using the local currency they acquired to pay for the operating expenses of their remarkably large legation.

The American government was alarmed at the possibility of losing an ideological war in a critically important part of the world without having even fired a shot.

To meet the challenge — which had since arisen in a number of European and Asiatic countries as well — the U.S. government in June, 1952, adopted the information media guaranty program, which, in a nutshell, works as follows:

American publishers and wholesalers sell their material directly to foreign dealers. After receiving payment from the dealers in foreign currency, the American firms turn the money over to the State Department which pays them in dollars at the prevailing rate of exchange. The State Department in turn uses the acquired currency for expanding the work of its office of information in the country where the sales were made.

THE EFFECT of the new program in Israel was immediate. American books, newspapers, magazines and records began to pour into the country in such volume as to dwarf the Soviet imports. Israelis, en masse, poured into once empty bookshops buying up virtually everything in sight.

The response has been so overwhelming that in the two and one-half years that the program has been in existence, Israelis have purchased more than 3 million dollars worth of materials, which is more than any other country in the world has bought.

Priority under the program has been given to technical and scientific publications. Most popular of all are the pocket books which appeal to the slender Israel purse. (Many Israelis are at home in English, the language being a required subject in the high schools.)

Also popular are American magazines, and when word gets around town that the latest issues have arrived, there is apt to be an immediate run on the bookstores.

THE ADOPTION of the program did not carry with it the promise that all types of reading matter would be included. Care is exercised by the Israel and American governments, who carefully screen lists submitted by publishers, to see that only worth-while informal media are approved. "Cheese-cake" and pulps are out, as are the recorded moans and sobs of various juke box artists.

The new program is a boon not only for American firms but for Israel publishers as well. Under the terms of the program, paper is being made available for the printing in Israel of Hebrew originals and translations of approved books.

Meanwhile business has fallen off sharply for the Russian-supplied shopkeepers who stare dismally at the crowded stores featuring American books.

NOW THEY HAVE another problem. Some time ago the Israel government served notice that proceeds from the sale of Russian books could not be used for paying the expenses of the Soviet legation and warned that if the practice was continued Israel would sharply reduce the number of Soviet books allowed into the country. The Communists, however, persisted, with the results that the Israelis confiscated large stocks of reading material at the Haifa dock and impounded them under guard. Most of the books are still there, slowly rotting away.

The Russians are understandably unhappy at the unexpected turn of events.

Little by little the U.S. information media guaranty program is inexorably driving the Soviet propaganda machine in the Holy Land further and further into the red.

Questions Vary In Tonsillectomies

Whether to take the tonsils out or leave them in is a question faced each year by thousands of parents and physicians. Each time the problem is a little different.

For example, one correspondent writes that her five-year-old daughter has been advised to have her tonsils and adenoids out because she averages an infection per month. She is reluctant to have this done and wonders what might happen if she decides against it.

Another writer says that her doctor has advised a tonsillectomy on her six-year-old daughter after one attack of tonsillitis and wants an opinion on tonsillectomies on children as young as this girl.

Obviously, the physician on the spot is in a better position to decide, but it can be stated that the age of these two girls is no reason against removing the tonsils and adenoids. In fact, it is often easier on the very young than later, as they forget about it more rapidly.

As to the question of a parent's deciding against tonsillectomy, this seems a little unwise since the physician probably knows more about the need for removing the tonsils than she does.

If it is not done she runs the risk of having the girl get more infections of the tonsils with an increased likelihood of developing complications which may be more difficult to treat later on.

There are some recognized reasons for not taking out the tonsils. Among these are the presence of acute inflammation, tuberculosis of the lungs, several blood disorders, and diabetes.

The reasons for taking out tonsils are not always so clear-cut. Frequent attacks of acute tonsillitis and difficulty in swallowing, breathing or talking caused by enlarged tonsils are good reasons.

Infection of the middle ear is usually reason enough to remove them also. If there is cause to believe that chronic infection of the tonsils is causing Bright's disease, arthritis, or other difficulties elsewhere in the body they are better removed.

A male cricket produces its chirping sound thus: A heavy vein on the upper wings has a roughened surface that acts as a file. On the underside of the top wings is a scraper. When the cricket elevates the wings and then rubs the scraper over the file, he produces the high-pitched sound. Only male crickets have these organs.

Once Over

Changing The Act

U. S. Information Agency is going factual, instructive and horse-sensible. It is dropping the routines of the circus press agent, the mid-way ballyhoo man and the high-pressure salesman.

The day of trying to win a Zulu to democracy by the latest figures on electric icebox and beach-wagon production are over. There was a long time when Uncle Sam felt that he could win a cold war with hot music, hot crooners and a hot sales talk.

Russia let him have both barrels and he counterattacked with "The Tennessee Waltz," "Cry" and "Begin the Beguine."

In support he sent in two waves of statisticians with impressive figures on ranch-house production and the semi-annual statement on toothbrush sales. For reserves he used the Hit Parade and the life story of Henry Ford.

A starving Malayan tuned in to get a ray of hope and got a recording of a TV comedian's latest gags, the baseball scores, a talk on the low cost of all-aluminum kitchens and a description of the Harvest Ball.

If somebody in Outer Mongolia got a chance to get near a radio to strengthen his morale he was urged to fight to the death for the free world because it stood for the five-hour day, eleven holidays a year, a limousine on a small down payment, and better allowances on the old car.

But let's not be too critical of former "Voice" heads. Most of us had similar ideas that we could win the world by putting top emphasis on the comforts, luxuries and soft aspects of American life.

We were slow to realize that the greater part of our unseen audience was penniless, sick, hungry and persecuted, its last desire being an electric washing machine, a telephone on both floors, swift subway service and a bag of popcorn with every movie.

It is not comforting to need a bowl of rice and get a bunch of Broadway songs, greetings from Miss America and the true story of Bob Hope's rise to riches.

The world wants facts, interpretive reporting, simple truth and straight talk free from hasenpfeffer.

It needs a picture of the free world as a generous, four-square, level-headed, substantial and reliable friend, not as a boastful, double-chinned high-pressure "Mister Big."

"The Voice" has been trying to cover too much territory in the manner of a circus barker in a terrible hurry. The situation calls for fewer activities, more wallop and less "running rapidly off in all directions" to the tune of "Buy Me That Doggie in the Window."

CHRISTMAS RECIPE

Take suit too big,
Add whiskers scanty;
Shake well and get
A department store "Santy."

When you meditate on all the automatic appliances and gadgets a wife has today you realize that the old-fashioned mother must have been the work-elephant's greatest rival.

Coffee Break: The routine your old man used to consider loafing on the job.

America has now worked itself up to a state where any man or woman denied all the luxuries feels entitled to a persecution complex.

Don't ask a child what he wants for Christmas these days. Just save time by handing him a list and asking him to check the two or three items he does NOT want.

Confident Living

By DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Improve Your Personality

Have you ever tested what you think and say and do? It's a good idea to do so just to be sure you think, and speak, and do the right things.

Dr. Peale

Many of us have never stopped to set up any fixed standards of testing our conduct. We go from one situation to another in a hit-or-miss fashion, hoping for the best, but often getting the worst. Inevitably, we make mistakes. In so doing we hurt ourselves and we hurt others. In this scientific age why shouldn't we live scientifically and so get better results?

Thinking about this question, about twenty years ago a Chicago manufacturer of aluminum kitchenware, Herbert J. Taylor, found an answer. Mr. Taylor has apparently a talent for finding answers—he has brought his company from bankruptcy in 1932 to a present value of two million dollars.

Mr. Taylor's answer is known as "The Four-Way Test." It is simply this:

1. The Four Way Test of the things YOU think, say or do.
2. Is it fair to all concerned?
3. Will it build good will and better friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

MR. TAYLOR ATTRIBUTES his business success to the constant application of this test in his own life. Since 1942, he has made it available to Rotary International, of which he is an active member, for recommendation and distribution.

Rotary Clubs throughout the world have taken an interest in the project and the test has been translated into many languages and applied in many situations. An article in a recent issue of The Rotarian tells of its adoption by the high school students of Kenosha, Wisconsin, who have used it successfully to make their lives and personal relationships, in school and out, fuller and better.

Whether you are in school or long since out of school, the application of this test in your own life can make you a better person and increase your efficiency. Of course, the test derives from the basic truths taught by religion; it is found in the age-old wisdom of the Bible.

In fact, all ethical standards come from religious teachings. For example, the book of Job has a test which is very applicable to this matter: "Return unto the Almighty and he will build you up." That's very modern-sounding advice from a very old book. It means return to God, practice His laws and you will become a better person.

WHEN YOU RETURN to the Almighty, you become conscious of the ethical standards by which you ought to judge yourself. And when you test yourself by these standards, you will gradually build yourself up into the kind of person who is right-thinking, right-speaking and right-doing. Then you get along better with people and are held in higher esteem. You will do better in every way.

Begin today. Learn the Four-Way Test and apply it to all your thoughts, words and actions. Then go deeper into the principles of your religion which make for more effective thinking, speaking and doing. Personally, I've found it valuable to judge myself honestly and objectively. When done regularly, it prevents one from getting too far "off the beam." It's surprising how such personality testing brings about improvement. Test yourself and improve yourself. Return to the Almighty and He will build you up.

Tariff Battle Grows Hotter; Plans Given

NEW YORK (AP)—The tariff battle gets white hot. Both sides are slugging hard—those who want American industries (particularly theirs) protected from foreign competition, and those who want trade barriers lowered so that they can sell more American goods (particularly their own products) to other lands.

Into this welter of words come two suggestions that maybe another way can be found to solve part of the world's trade problems—that maybe the question of U.S. tariffs is getting too much stress, both here and in Europe.

One is set forth by the American Iron & Steel Institute. It holds that our piecemeal tariff policy is outdated. It asks for an entirely new approach to the whole foreign trade question.

The institute would set up a foreign trade commission. The present U.S. Tariff Commission would become merely a fact-finding board under the new one, and the Export-Import Bank would become merely its fiscal arm. The new commission would look into all phases of world trade and give a "constant review of changing factors in the foreign economic scene."

Another view—and some are guessing it may come close to what the administration will finally ask of Congress—is set forth by Juan T. Tripp, president of Pan American World Airways, after consultations with Washington leaders. He calls it a middle ground view.

Tripp would soft-pedal the battle over tariffs by extending the reciprocal trade agreements act for two years with a mandatory review of all present tariff schedules during that period.

Then he would concentrate on ending burdensome frontier formalities, on increasing duty exemption to American travellers to $1,000 from the present $500, seek ways to increase American investments abroad and boost American tourist travel. Pan Am, engaged in international transportation, would gain from all these plans.

The Christmas Candle

In the earliest times the lighted candle had a place in man's expression of his religious belief. Light has always symbolized the outreach of the Almighty.

But in the celebration of Christmas, the lighted candle has assumed a special significance. Gleaming in the darkness, it is like the Star that stood over Bethlehem. Flickering in the wintry draught, it is like the tiny Infant rocked in his mother's arms. Shining boldly through its wreath, it is like the Master of Mankind beckoning the world into the warmth of His Love.

And yet, no candle can express the real joy of Christmas. Worship is our divine gift for revealing our love to God. The prayers and hymns we lift from happy Christian hearts as we gather in Church; these are the real Christmas Candle—the glow of a people honored and blessed by the birth of the Christ.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Mother-In-Law's Tip

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U)—Never disdain the advice of your mother-in-law. Gerry Coughlan, a stranger in a strange land, took a tip from his wife's mother—and it started him on the way to business success. "It was a good thing I listened to her," recalled Coughlan, who parlayed his Irish accent, his elbow grease, and $4,000 of borrowed money into a two-million-dollar-a-year business in household chemicals.

Coughlan, president of the Easy-

Aid Co. and one of the world's top sports fishermen, is among America's leading spokesmen for small business. He thinks the big frog in the small puddle not only has more fun, but is also smarter, than the little frog in the big pond.

At 16 he sailed around the world as a British merchant marine cadet. He then joined the Irish Army, rose to the rank of captain, and then was demoted to lieutenant when "the trouble" with England ended in Eire's freedom.

"I was the Irish Army's all-around athletic champion," Coughlan said, "but the army was full of comparatively young colonels and generals, and I couldn't see where the hell a young lieutenant could go in it—so I got out, and started a physical culture school."

Gerry, a star middle distance runner, competed in the 1928 Olympics, then came to America in 1932 to help manage the three-man Irish Olympic team. He promptly fell in love with a New Jersey girl, and decided to settle in America.

"But what should I do?" he asked his bride's mother, who was laboriously slicing green beans in her kitchen.

"Make something to slice beans," she said.

Coughlan took her at her word. He borrowed $4,000, then with the help of a machinist designed a kitchen tool to stem, string and slice green beans, put a small factory to work making the tools—and set out in a car himself to sell them.

"I traveled 85,000 miles the first year," he said. "It was in 1933, the depression was on, and a lot of people were jumping out windows. But nobody had told me it was the custom to meet a depression by jumping out a window."

"In Ireland hard times were nothing new. So I just kept traveling and talking. I expected a customer to say no, so whenever one said yes, it was a surprise—sometimes to both of us."

Coughlan added new kitchen items to his line, systematically began advertising it. When the second world war cut off his supply of metals, he switched to household chemicals and developed a soot-removing compound, a silver dip cleaner, an oven cleaner, a house de-humidifier, a solvent to keep paint brushes from hardening.

DORIS DAY AND HOWARD KEEL are paired in Warner Bros.' Technicolor screen western, "Calamity Jane," which opens Sunday at the State Theater. Doris plays the title role with Keel seen in the part of Wild Bill Hickok. Together and in solo, they sing the Fair-Webster score which includes "Secret Love."

He still hits the road six months a year, but has found time to win the outstanding angling achievement award of the Miami Metropolitan Fishing Tournament five years in a row.

Coughlan believes business success depends more on "ability to deal with personalities than with figures, and that is why everybody in our executive setup has to get out on the road part of the time and sell."

"Anybody in a successful small business is more capable than a man in a similar position in a large corporation. He has to be a better all-around man to survive, because he has to be able to fill several jobs."

"In a big corporation they specialize. They have to call in a committee to get a window closed." Coughlan feels young college graduates who choose the security of a job with a large corporation rather than the bigger gamble and adventure of a career in small business are turning their backs on real opportunity.

"Any young man can make a real success of a small business in this country," he said. "If he has guts, enthusiasm, common sense and the competitive spirit—and isn't looking for a handout."

Speedy, Accurate Quakers Roll Over Canton Central, 85-70

Jack Alexander Is High Scorer

Youngstown To Play Salem Here Tonight

By SANDY HANSELL

Point-happy, win-hungry Salem Quakers started their season off on the right foot and gave promise of better things to come Friday night in the Salem gym as they mercilessly battered the hoops and Canton Central Catholic to emerge on the winning end of a 85-70 score.

Some 860 thrilled cage fans witnessed the mile-a-minute locals sweep to three 20-point quarters, clubbing the hard-fighting Crusaders into submission with pin-point shooting accuracy, expert passing, and lightning-like footspeed.

All told, the Red and Black connected on almost 40 per cent of their shots, an excellent mark for high school cagers, particularly so early in the season.

THE STORY of the game is simple: Salem was just too strong for Canton.

Jack Alexander scored 16 points in the first half, and finished with a total of 23; Jack Gottschling connected for 18 of his 20 points in the second half; and Harry Baird split his 19 points about evenly throughout the game.

All five Quaker starters hit for nine points or better.

The game started at a furious pace. With Alexander leading the way by dunking four of six shots, Salem soon moved out to a 24-11 first period lead. However, Canton got hot in the second frame, cashing in on 11 of 27 shots, and pulled up to 42-35 at halftime.

The third period was nip and tuck all the way, with both teams racking up 22 points. Salem never could manage more than a 12-point lead while the foe pulled to within five points twice, but the quarter ended with Salem in front 64-57.

AFTER ALEXANDER'S consistent scoring from in close during the first half, Central dropped back to clog up the middle and bottle up the center, preventing Salem from scoring inside.

However, Gottschling, who had failed to produce a single field goal in the first half, neatly took up the slack by coming through with four field goals in each of the last two periods.

Thus when Canton dropped off, Gottschling and Baird started hitting from the fringes of their defense with long shots, to maintain Salem's lead.

As the Quakers moved into the last period with a seven point lead, the pressure fell squarely upon the visitors. Caba's sent his men into a semi-stall, playing possession ball and forcing the Crusaders to move out in an attempt to recapture the oval.

The Red and Black then calmly waited until the Crusaders committed a foul in trying for the ball, or sprung a man free underneath the basket.

The plan worked to perfection as Salem pulled away consistently in the last five minutes to win going away.

WITH JUST ABOUT three minutes to go, Canton was still in the game at 71-66, but Alexander came through with another basket, a neat jump-shot from the side.

Harry Baird then swished a pair of fouls, and Gottschling hit on a long shot to cinch the game.

Alexander was the king-pin last night, undoubtedly turning in the most brilliant performance of his career. Doing a creditable job under the boards, he capped his fine showing by sinking 10 of 14 shots for a sizzling 64.2 per cent.

Jack Gottschling with a sparkling floor game as well, came through with 8 fielders in 24 shots, and played a vital role in the second half with his consistent scoring.

Harry Baird, connecting with 8 of 25 shots, was the vital cog in the stall that insured the victory. His coolness under pressure was a steady influence on the entire team.

Larry Stoffer did a good job under the boards in the first half, while Rich Hunter turned in a fine floor game.

The Quakers had a 38.2 scoring percentage from the field, with 34 for 89, and netted 17 of 26 free throws. Canton meshed 26 of 95 attempts for a 27.4 mark and hit 18 of 32 foul shots.

Verdane Williams (34) and Bob Piero (3) paced the Crusaders, netting 15 and 13 points respectively. Del Halpin coaches the Crusaders.

Salem takes on Youngstown South tonight in the Salem gym. Game time is 9 p.m.

QUAKERS OPEN WITH VICTORY—At top left, Salem's high scorer for the evening, Center Jack Alexander aims a beautiful hook shot in the first quarter that gave him two of his 23 points. In the next photo, Alexander, Verdane Williams of Canton, and Larry Stoffer of Salem fight for a rebound in action as seen from the balcony in the third quarter.

Harry Baird, Quaker forward, in the third photo leaps high above the Canton defense to score in the second quarter. Frank Pariano of Canton Central attempts to halt the shot.

At top right, Jack Gottschling jumps into the air to push a two-handed shot toward the basket in the fourth quarter. Gottschling's shot was good for two points as he racked up 20 for the night.

At bottom left, Larry Stoffer leans over backwards as he takes a difficult shot back over his head that was good for two points in the first quarter.

Bevo Sets Small School Scoring Mark With 82

BLUFFTON, Ohio (P)—Clarence (Bevo) Francis, who re-wrote the basketball record book last season only to have his efforts rejected by the NCAA, holds another mark today—82 points for a small college single game.

Francis hit on 63 per cent of his shots last night, scoring 36 times from the field and adding 10 free throws as his Rio Grande College defeated Bluffton 116-71.

Francis scored 116 points in one game last year but that achievement along with several others, including a season's total of 1954 points, failed to gain NCAA recognition because Rio Grande played many junior colleges.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (P)—The Southeastern Conference has adopted a new rule limiting new football scholarships to 40 a year beginning Dec. 7, 1954.

This was described in some circles as a curb to football recruit-

Spartans Taken Off Big Ten Probation

CHICAGO (P)—The Big Ten has officially removed any doubt about the current good standing of Michigan State, the team it selected for the Rose Bowl.

The conference's faculty representatives, by unanimous vote, decided last night to remove the East Lansing Spartans from probation.

The action followed a report by Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson that MSC had satisfactorily met all terms of the probation.

It was Wilson who last February put the Spartans on their good behavior because of the activities of the Spartan Foundation, Inc. This off-the-campus booster group allegedly helped recruit and aid MSC athletes.

At the time, Wilson decreed the probation for a year but said it might be lifted by Big Ten chiefs any time the Spartans proved they had their athletic house in order.

The Spartan Foundation was dissolved long before the school was placed on probation. The issue, as far as Wilson was concerned, was whether a complete record of foundation funds and activities would be made readily available to the commissioner.

He told faculty representatives yesterday that in his opinion Michigan State has done everything possible to help with the Big Ten investigation. Thereupon he recommended termination of the probation. To a man, the representatives agreed.

10-Year Contract Ready For Iowa's Grid Coach

IOWA CITY, Iowa (P)—A new 10-year contract was being readied for University of Iowa head Football Coach Forest Evashevski today and Evashevski's "very happy with the entire deal."

Evashevski arrived in Iowa City from Chicago last night, still with no official notification of the new contract.

But the Iowa State Board of Education, which approved the long-term pact in Des Moines yesterday, said his signature would be only a formality.

"I'm happy at Iowa," Evashevski said when informed in Chicago that the board had voted to approve the pact. "I hope to make roots, deep roots at Iowa."

Evashevski now has a five year contract calling for a salary of $15,000 a year. The new, longer-term document, which will supercede the old one as soon as it is signed, fixes his salary at that same amount.

GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY.

Salem Jayvees Roll Over Canton, 85-55

The Salem Reserves unleashed a terrific point barrage in the preliminary game Friday night, burying the Canton Central Reserves 85-55 in the Salem gym.

The wild spree gives the Jayvees a possible scoring record. No reserve team in recent years has even approached that mark.

Holding the foe without a field goal until the second period, the little Quakers had a 37-25 lead at halftime, steadily increasing it in the final two quarters.

Each of the last three stanzas saw the locals rack up 20 points or more.

With a diversified scoring attack leading the way, 12 of the 14 players used split the meshes. Out of the 14, six were freshmen, all of whom scored.

Bob Early topped the pack, meshing 14 points, while Jerry Myers registered 11, Walt Rutzky and Matt Klein, 10 each, and Ken Bosu tallied nine.

Lou Thomas paced the losers with 11 markers.

Landy Runs 4:02 Mile In Melbourne

MELBOURNE (P)—Almost a year to the day he first gained international fame, slender John Landy today ran the third fastest winning mile in history, a 4:02 effort at Olympic Park.

Landy's time—a new Australian record—is exceeded only by the world record of 4:01.4 set by Sweden's Gunder Haegg in 1945 fastest mile ever run by an American.

(These times compare to the fastest mile ever run by an American, Wes Santee's 4:02.4 at the Compton (Calif.) Relays last June. Roger Bannister of England ran a 4:02 mile earlier this year, but the time was not recognized because it was a paced mile.)

Duquesne Whips Deacons, 76-61

Pitt Upsets Bradley With 3 Seconds To Go

By BEN PHLEGAR
NEW YORK (AP)—The powerful Duquesne glided by their first major basketball test so easily that the question today was "Who's going to stop them?"

Playing the first game in Pittsburgh's four-team Steel Bowl tournament, Duquesne defeated Wake Forest, last season's Southern Conference champions, 76-61, using reserves most of the second half.

The Deacons from the South figured to be a major hurdle in Duquesne's campaign for national prominence, particularly since they beat North Carolina State earlier in the week.

But the Deacons never had to apply the pressure. They led by 16 points at the half and used the full 12-man squad before it was over. Dickie Hemic of Wake Forest salvaged the scoring honors with 23 points. Dick Ricketts got 19 and Si Green, highly touted sophomore forward, 17 for the winners.

Captain Dutch Burch sank a field goal with three seconds to play as Pittsburgh upset Bradley 66-64 in the other Steel Bowl game.

Touring Texas Christian, defending Southwest Conference champion, bowed to Brigham Young of the Skyline Conference 59-48. The Skyline teams had success elsewhere too, with Wyoming beating Creighton 71-65, Utah taking the measure of Loyola of Los Angeles 87-56 and Utah State whipping Montana State 77-66.

George Washington, one of the better teams in the Mid-Atlantic area, rallied in the second half for an 81-67 Southern Conference decision over Richmond.

St. John's of Brooklyn, a finalist in last year's National Invitation Tournament, still is having trouble finding the right combination this season. The Redmen won their third straight, 75-53, at the expense of Fairfield, but it was close through the first half.

Al Lipson scored 22 points as North Carolina opened its collegiate schedule with a 71-61 victory over William and Mary.

Rio Grande and Bevo Francis returned to small college competition and Bevo promptly scored 82 points, bettering the listed small college record of 72 points set by Nate DeLong of River Falls, Wis., and the major college mark of 73 by Bill Mikvy of Temple, La.

Smith Defeats Zulueta In Slow Fight

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Promoter Sam Becker popped up with a $30,000 offer today to lightweight champion Jimmy Carter to defend his title against Wallace (Bud) Smith, the No. 1 challenger, at Cincinnati in February or March.

As Carter just finished his third defense of 1953 and doesn't have to go again until May, he probably will take his time answering. Anyway, Eddie Chavez looks like his next challenger in San Francisco. Smith beat back the No. 2 challenger, Cuban Orlando Zulueta, last night at Madison Square Garden to win a unanimous decision in 10 dull rounds. Only in the seventh and eighth, when Smith shook up Zulueta, did the fight arouse the small crowd of 2,991 that paid $17,708.

Referee Ruby Goldstein scored it 7-2-1, Judge Art Susskind 7-3 and Judge Bert Grant 5-4-1, all for Smith. The AP card had it 6-3-1 for Smith.

Vic Marsilio, manager of Smith, said in the dressing room he had a wire from George Barton, past president of the National Boxing Assn., to the effect that Smith would be recognized as the leading contender if he beat Zulueta. Vic said Bob Christenberry, New York State Athletic Commission chairman, was agreeable to the idea.

Smith, dull in the early rounds, kept coming to the Cuban, who was able to fence him off with a clever left hand and clutched when he got inside. In the seventh and eighth Smith caught up with Zulueta with his steady attack.

There were no knockdowns although Zulueta was on the floor three times from a push, trip and fall.

night's score was 116-71 over Bluffton (Ohio) College. Bevo scored more than 100 points last season but it was against a junior college outfit.

In other games Rice beat Sam Houston 89-77; Seattle outscored Pepperdine College 94-85; California edged San Jose State 56-48; Southern California tripped Hawaii 60-46; and Washington State defeated Gonzaga 60-49.

Pro Gridders To Wind Up Seasons Sunday

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League winds up its scheduled season tomorrow with three teams having very definite reasons for wanting to end the campaign on a victory note.

The Cleveland Browns, already winner of the Eastern Conference title, want to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles so they'll have an unbeaten year—the third in league history.

The Detroit Lions need a victory over the New York Giants to assure them of the Western Conference crown and a spot in the playoffs against the Browns Dec. 27.

And the San Francisco 49ers must whip the Baltimore Colts to keep alive their title chance should the Lions lose. A Detroit defeat and a San Francisco victory would entail a playoff in the West coast city Dec. 20.

Also at stake is the little matter of second place in both conferences worth a few hundred dollars to each player. Philadelphia and Washington are tied for the runner-up spot back of Cleveland, each with a 6-4-1 record. Washington has the much easier assignment tomorrow in its clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Los Angeles Rams, who lost to Detroit in the Western Conference playoff last year, can get into the money only if they whip the Green Bay Packers today and the 49ers lose to the Colts.

The traditional Chicago Cardinals-Chicago Bears contest has no bearing on the money distribution. The Cards have only a tie to show for 11 games while the Bears have a 3-7-1 mark.

If the Browns defeat the Eagles, and they figure to do so, they'll match the unbeaten seasons of the Bears in 1934 and 1942. Both years, however, the Bears lost in the title game.

Beck was top man with 17 points, although he fouled out in the last four minutes. Gotschall had 16. Joe Coppola led the winners with 13 while Don Johnson accounted for 11 tallies.

Goshen's record is now 3 wins and 2 losses while Lowellville is undefeated in three outings. The Goshen Reserves won 34-21, to establish a 4-1 win-loss slate.

The Goshers take on Greenford at Goshen Tuesday night.

1. Julius Boros, the 1952 National Open champion, quit in disgust after taking 109, four over par, for the first 27 holes over the flat and normally easy Miami Springs municipal course.

2. Johnny Palmer, the solid competitor from North Carolina, failed to qualify for the third round with his 72-74—146, six strokes over par.

3. Sam Snead threw a ball away in anger after missing a two-foot putt.

4. Lew Worsham, the year's top money winner, and Tommy Bolt left broken clubs on the course.

5. Art Wall Jr., the first-day leader, got into a violent argument with photographers who took his picture during a round in which he skidded into a fourth-place tie.

The pros complained that the greens of the 6,570-yard course were too grainy, but local players said the greens were in better shape than usual. The pros said it was too windy, but Miami's breezes yesterday were comparatively mild and there was hardly any wind at all during Thursday's first round.

The cause of the mediocre shooting was a mystery, but one thing was sure: there'll be big galleries out today to see what is going to happen next.

Husky Doug Ford, second biggest money winner of the year, led going into the third round with 135, five strokes under par. The consistent Yonkers, N. Y., pro had a two-stroke margin over Al Brosch, Garden City, L. I., and Fred Wampler, Indianapolis.

Wall, who shot a 73 to go with his first-day 65, dropped into a fourth-place tie at 138 with Snead; Ed Furgol, St. Louis; Steve Warga, Miami; and Shelley Mayfield, Chicago, Mass.

Wall's rubarbub occurred at the 18th when photographers snapped his picture while he was making a recovery shot from under the trees. The shot was good, carrying close to the pin, but he missed a short putt for a bogey.

Fairfield Comets Beat Augusta, 80-69

The Fairfield High Comets continued their winning ways last night by defeating the Augusta Township five, 80-69, at Fairfield.

Holding a one point edge going into the second quarter, the Comets fell behind, 35-26, at the half-way mark. Augusta got 18 more in the third period but the Comets unleashed a 33-point attack.

Fairfield hooped 21 more in the final stanza, with the Augusta cagers adding 16.

John Mellinger with 11 goals, led had 20 points for the Fairfield five. Augusta used just five men during the contest. Locke led the Augusta cagers with 25 markers.

Lowellville Rockets Edge Goshen, 53-52

Goshen Union dropped a heart-breaking 53-52 decision to the Lowellville Rockets Friday night in the Goshen gym.

Close all the way, the game was tied at the end of the first quarter. Lowellville then took a 3-point edge at halftime, but Goshen tied the contest at the end of the third stanza.

The Goshers then moved ahead 46-44 with 5:15 left as Galen Beck and Bill Gotschall hit foul shots.

However Jim Rogers and Bob Rotz netted field goals for the Rockets, putting them in the lead.

Later Gotschall connected for two, and Goshen was behind only 51-50 with two and a half minutes to go. But Goshen couldn't muster the needed points to break in front.

Beck was top man with 17 points, although he fouled out in the last four minutes. Gotschall had 16. Joe Coppola led the winners with 13 while Don Johnson accounted for 11 tallies.

Goshen's record is now 3 wins and 2 losses while Lowellville is undefeated in three outings. The Goshen Reserves won 34-21, to establish a 4-1 win-loss slate.

Clippers Record 47-45 Victory

The Columbiana Clippers held off a fourth quarter rally by Champion to post their 3rd straight victory Friday night in the Champion gym. The final score was 47-45.

In a nip and tuck game, Champion took a one-point lead at the end of the third quarter, 33-32. The Clippers regained it early in the fourth period and froze the ball the last minute with a one point advantage, 46-45.

The final marker came on a foul shot as Champion desperately attempted to regain possession. Columbiana had a one-point edge, 13-12 at the first quarter, and increased it to three at halftime, 25-22.

The Clippers' record now stands at 3-1 for the season after dropping their opener to Fairfield.

Forrest of Champion took scoring honors with 20 points. Homer Gilchrist led the Clippers with 15. The Champion reserves edged the Clipper Jayvees, 33-30.

Industry For Crescent Plant Still Sought

LEETONIA — Routine business matters claimed the attention of the Leetonia Village Council Wednesday evening.

Mayor Paul A. Sevenich reported his office had collected a total of $230.60 in fines, costs and fees during November. The amount was turned over to the village treasury.

Council moved to have the clerk and mayor draw up an agreement with Ripley Chevrolet for the purchase of the new truck which will be used by the street department.

Dominic Dattilo appeared before council and requested a street light in front of his business property on Washington St. The mayor requested the street light committee make an investigation and also report on any other locations that might need additional street lights.

Mayor Sevenich reported that the Leetonia Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee, of which he is chairman, has held meetings recently to discuss two prospective industries, the officials of which are interested in moving their facilities to the vacant Crescent plant.

The Mayor stated that all prospects were thoroughly investigated and are being followed up. The high cost of the plant seems to be the major drawback with all prospects.

Besides Mayor Sevenich other committee members are Edward Greenamyer, Rev. T. Laughner, E. Holt, Jr.

Council granted the Ohio Edison permission to install two blinker lights, one at Walnut and High and the other at Lisbon and Columbia streets. Cost of the electricity used by the new "blinkers" will be added to the present street lighting contract.

THE REGULAR meeting of the Board of Education of the Leetonia Exempted Village School District was held Wednesday evening at the high school.

The board approved the appointment of Mrs. John Volpe of Washingtonville as a member of the Community Public Library Board. Mrs. Volpe filled the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Murnie Girard, who had been a member of the board for many years.

The Board of Education set Jan. 1 at 10 a.m. for its annual organization meeting. Miss Betty Heltis, the only retiring member of the board, will be replaced by Dr. Paul Conrad. Miss Heltis was not a candidate for re-election. Jack Ripley and incumbent president of the board, Charles Stelts, were re-elected.

Ralph Stumpo is a patient in Salem City hospital where he underwent an appendectomy. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yoo is visiting their sister-in-law Mrs. Vera Fritz at Massillon today.

THE F.O.E. LADIES Auxiliary will hold its Christmas party Monday evening with a coverdish dinner at 6:30. The program will include a gift exchange.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yoo spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Richard Firestone on the Columbiana - New Waterford Rd.

The Anniversary and Birth day Club held its Christmas party with a chicken dinner and gift exchange at the Wee Farm on the Salem-Lisbon Rd., then attend the theater in Lisbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dean have returned from a week's visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Scully and family of Cleveland.

Willam Workers Class and the Brillhart Missionary Society will hold a combined Christmas dinner party at the Midway Grange hall Monday at 6:30 p.m. There will be a gift exchange. The devotional program will be in charge of the Brillhart Society.

Mary Greenamyer Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church will hold its December meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. J. Prior.

Sen. Bricker Seen Not Taking Stand Soon On Taft Successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio's top Republican, Sen. Bricker, has had little to say in the midst of current political talk about replacing his onetime colleague, the late Sen. Taft.

He will remain silent, too, said a Bricker aide, until the primary ticket is fairly well lined up.

"After all," this aide pointed out, "he can't come out at this point and say: 'I'm for Joe Doakes.'"

Nevertheless, Bricker is an important man to consult, as Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) pointed out the other day after discussing his candidacy for the senatorial nomination with Bricker.

As a former governor — something Taft was not—Bricker always has been close to the state GOP organization.

"The senator," said an aide, "acts as a sort of harmonizer. If it can be done, he likes to see a Republican candidate unopposed in the primary. He himself ran in eight primaries, unopposed."

"On the other hand, it might work out that there are two good candidates for an office. In that case, if bitterness can be avoided, it would be better to have them fight it out for the nomination."

"Ray Bliss (Ohio GOP chairman) wouldn't dream of going along on a candidacy without consulting the senator. Nor would the senator do the same thing without consulting Bliss."

Bricker talked with Bender the day after Gov. Lausche announced he would again be a candidate for governor.

Bender and ex-Ohio Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, quite by accident talked with Bricker in conferences just a few minutes apart.

Herbert would say nothing about his talks with Bricker. He says he may become too involved in his job as chairman of the Subversive Activities Control Board to consider a gubernatorial or senatorial candidacy.

His only reaction to the news of Lausche's intentions to try for reelection was: "Well, whadda ya know?"

If he so close, Herbert could try for Bender's present seat in the House, since he has a legal residence in that district. The 23rd. District is in suburban Cleveland and considered one of the "safest" GOP sectors in the state.

Rep. Hays (D-Ohio), who once thought he might try for governor, heard the news about Lausche's plans in Bethesda Naval Hospital where he has been resting.

His reaction was that it would place Lausche in a good spot at the next Democratic convention, if the governor was interested in the nomination for vice president or president.

"But make clear," he said, "that I mean IF he is interested. I don't know that he is."

Its Christmas card time for Ohio members in Congress, Rep. Frances Bolton (R), per custom, has an extra girl working on hers. She sends out 12,000. . . The best known Christmas card writer, Rep. Bender, declines to say how many he sends out. "I regard it as a private matter," he says. . .

Sen. Burke reports he will send between 400 and 500 the same number he sent out as Cleveland mayor. . . Sen. Bricker's office says he doesn't send any cards from here, and does "not go in for masses of Christmas cards."

Stevenson speech which will be nationally televised and broadcast at a $100-a-plate banquet tonight.

Six more seats from this region would be enough in themselves to upset the present House lineup of 219 Republicans, 215 Democrats and 1 independent. And party stalwarts are saying they can chalk up more gains in other parts of the country.

Harriman Sees Victory
Averell Harriman of New York, holder of numerous top jobs in the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, said in an interview: "There isn't the slightest doubt we can get the House and perhaps the Senate, but we'll all have to work and pull together."

Lawrence said he is optimistic because the GOP barely squeezed control of Congress out of last year's election "even with President Eisenhower's tremendous popularity—and they don't have him on the ticket next year."

When Stevenson arrived late yesterday, he listed the issues for 1954 as foreign trade, foreign policy, taxation, farm policy. He said his speech would touch on "the state of the public mind business, foreign policy, miscellaneous things," and maybe communism in government.

bags into the station," he said. "I tried to keep the whole thing secret from everyone until we knew if the child was alive or not."

He said he and Dolan went outside to a police car and brought the suitcases in within 10 minutes after the booking.

Hall has said he had most of the $600,000 ransom at the time 720 was missing.

Shoulders said Hall, who stated in his confession that the suitcases were not taken to the station with him, just didn't see the luggage. Meanwhile, Hall was described as a serene man by a priest but the prison grapevine says he is nervous and sleepless as the execution date approaches.

The Rev. George L. Evans, as Episcopal minister and school days acquaintance, visited Hall Thursday. He said the condemned man told him he "now has an inward peace that he never before has known."

But from death row, where Hall and Mrs. Heady are under constant guard, came the report Hall was showing increasing nervousness and has had trouble lately getting to sleep.
